Business correspondence is an umbrella term used for any form of written communication that happens in business relationships. It could be with business partners or internal communication within the organization.

Business correspondence is mostly in the form of letters. People related to any business understand the significance of business letters since this correspondence in business communication can be used by them to express themselves, ask a doubt or clarification regarding any uncertainty.

The importance of business correspondence lies in the fact that it is the formal way of exchanging information by which professional relationships are maintained between organizations, employees, and clients. Since it is in a written form, it can serve as a future reference for the information being communicated.

Business correspondence happens daily in the lives of businessmen in the form of letters to suppliers, letters of inquiry, complaint letters, job application letters, and a few other forms.

Learning GST improve the tax calculation knowledge and importance of tax system in India.

Goods and Services Tax (GST) is a successor to VAT used in India on the supply of goods and services. GST is a digitalized form of VAT where you can also track the goods & services. Both VAT and GST have the same taxation slabs. It is a comprehensive, multistage, destination-based tax: comprehensive because it has subsumed almost all the indirect taxes except a few state taxes. Multi-staged as it is, the GST is imposed at every step in the production process, but is meant to be refunded to all parties in the various stages of production other than the final consumer and as a destination-based tax, it is collected from point of consumption and not point of origin like previous taxes.

VALUE-ADDED COURSE: 21PCSVA1 - BLOCKCHAIN AND CRYTOCURENCY

Class : I M.Sc Semester: II

Batch: 2021 – 2023

VISION:

To provide additional learner centric skill oriented technical training to improve the student's employability skills and to provide an opportunity to the students to develop added skills.

MISSION:

To bridge the skill gaps and make students industry ready. To provide an opportunity among students to develop their inter-disciplinary skills.

OBJECTIVE:

The main objective of this course is to impart knowledge on Blockchain and Cryptocurrency and make the students to design, build and deploy distributed applications by integrating the ideas from Blockchain technology.

ABOUT THE COURSE:

The sudden rise in the value of Bitcoin and other Cryptocurrencies, and its subsequent decline, focused the world's attention on Cryptocurrencies as a means of payment. Blockchain technology powers Bitcoin and has been hyped as the next new, transformative technology.

In this course, it is being discussed about the technical underpinnings of blockchain and review key concepts such as decentralization and consensus algorithms. blocks on Bitcoin's blockchain store data about monetary transactions. Today, there are more than 10,000 other cryptocurrency systems running on blockchain. But it turns out that blockchain is actually a reliable way of storing data about other types of transactions as well.

Some companies that have already incorporated blockchain include Walmart, Pfizer, AIG, Siemens, Unilever, and a host of others. For example, IBM has created its Food Trust blockchain to trace the journey that food products take to get to their locations.

Blockchain can eliminate much of the overhead associated with this process and streamline verification procedures, saving educators and administrators time when it comes to things like transfers between schools or states. Using blockchain, an institution accepting a transfer student could verify their record and the courses they took with a few simple clicks. The same concept applies to record sharing with an employer.

BENEFITS:

To save time and money, optimization in the previous technology is most important, and blockchain technology is an optimized version of the technology that plays an important role to maintain and secure your data for a long time.

Blockchain technology is a structure which connected through peer-to-peer nodes and helps to stores transactional records. This storage is referred to as a 'digital ledger. Blockchain is a Decentralized structure that creates trust between different entities. There are many possible reasons to why people invest in bitcoin. One reason is that people believe in the technological advancements that bitcoin (and the blockchain) can bring. This kind of innovation is fascinating to students so they mostly join to learn.

Students can benefit from crypto by learning what is it and why its here. Purely on the fact of being technically literate coupled with the willingness to learn new things. The crypto space is a fantastic opportunity to understand fiat currency, fractional reserve banking systems and government ties to corps. The knowledge is out there and free to learn. The most beneficial aspect of crypto today is the time you put into it. It may seem to go against the norm in many ways but that's the value.
