Classification of Bacteria on the basis of Nutrition

February 11, 2022 by Sagar Aryal

Edited By: Sagar Aryal

- Nutrition is substances used in biosynthesis and energy production and therefore are required for all living things.
- Bacteria, like all living cells, require energy and nutrients to build proteins and structural membranes and drive biochemical processes.
- Bacteria require sources of carbon, nitrogen, phosphorous, iron and a large number of other molecules.
- Carbon, nitrogen, and water are used in the highest quantities.
- The nutritional requirements for bacteria can be grouped according to the carbon source and the energy source.
- Some types of bacteria must consume pre-formed organic molecules to obtain energy, while
